

MORMON PARTY AT HOME AGAIN

Return From Vermont Where the Monument to Joseph Smith
Was Unveiled.

VISIT HISTORIC SCENES

REORGANIZED CHURCH NOW
OWNS THE FIRST TEMPLE.

President Joseph F. Smith and the Mormon church party which attended the recent unveiling of a monument to the Prophet Joseph Smith near Sharon, Vt., returned to Salt Lake yesterday over the Oregon Short Line. They came direct through from Chicago. All the members of the party speak in praise of the reception given them everywhere they visited.

The party left here on Dec. 15 on a special car, and made the entire trip in that car. They went directly to Sharon, where the monument was unveiled on Dec. 23, the anniversary of the prophet's birth. The monument is on a low hill about three miles from Sharon, on the exact spot where was situated the house in which Joseph Smith was born. The cottage in which the prophet lived is now a museum. The monument is to be built around the old Smith hearthstone.

John Henry for Senator.
From Sharon the party went to Boston, where they visited with members of the Mormon church organization in that city. Apostle John Henry Smith, who accompanied the party, was the recipient during his stay in Boston of a boom for the United States senatorship from Utah at the hands of the Boston Journal. It printed a picture of the apostle, and referred to him as "one who may be the next senatorial candidate." It added that he scarcely looks half his "nearly fourscore years," a statement which was probably comforting to Apostle Smith, as he celebrated his fifty-seventh birthday anniversary last September.

The same paper naively informed its readers that the Mormon party was in Boston "after the dedicatory exercises at the memorial to Brigham Young at Sharon, Vt."

President on Race Suicide.
President Joseph F. Smith was interviewed in Boston on "race suicide," and is quoted as saying:
"Do we sympathize with President Roosevelt in his fight against race suicide? Why, young man, that is the very thing we have been preaching against since the origin of the church. Well, no, I should hardly want to say he was imitating us in trying to build up the family. He is too original for that. The family is the very keystone of our religion. Look at the man (pointing to a group of the gray-headed elders whose tremendous vitality made them look more like football players than old men). That is the kind of men we produce. They don't look much like race suicide, do they?"

Visit Graves of Ancestors.
After leaving Boston, the Smith members of the party visited Topsfield and Foxford, two Massachusetts towns, where sleep the bones of their ancestors, the first of their branch of the Smith family to settle in America.

It has been described in the press dispatches how the party visited the scenes of Joseph Smith's early life in western New York—his old home in Manchester township; the woodland where he is purported to have had his first vision, and the Hill Cumorah, near Palmyra, N. Y., where he is supposed to have found the golden plates from which he translated the Book of Mormon.

Reorganizers Have First Temple.
From New York the party went to Kirtland, O., one of the first "gathering places" of the prophet's followers. Here the first Mormon temple was built, and it still stands, but far from being now in the possession of the church, it is in the hands of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, whose members claim to be the only true followers of Joseph Smith. They use it for a meeting house.

The temple fell into their hands after the schism which occurred in the ranks of the prophet's followers at his death. The faction which refused to follow the leadership of Brigham Young as the prophet's successor organized a church of their own, known as the "reorganized church," their leader then and now being a son of Joseph Smith, Apostle George A. Smith, who was in the party which returned from the east yesterday, says he understands there was litigation over the ownership of the Kirtland temple, and that the reorganized church secured title to it by virtue of a court's decree.

After the visit to Kirtland the party went to Chicago, and from there by special invitation to visit the Bain Wagon factory at Kenosha, Wis., and the Racine wagon factory at Racine, Wis. They also visited the Mormon congregation in Chicago. Boston and Chicago congregations were the only ones visited by the party during their eastern trip. No stops were made between Salt Lake and Chicago.

Those in the Party.
The general authorities of the church who made the trip were President Joseph F. Smith, Anthony H. Lund, second counselor to the president; Apostles F. M. Lyman, Charles W. Penrose, John Henry Smith, George A. Smith and Hyrum M. Smith, and First Presidents of Seventies Seymour B. Young and Rulon S. Wells.

Others in the party were: Patriarch John Smith, L. W. Shurtliff, Seymour Young, Frank Taylor, Jesse M. Smith, George F. Richards, Ashby Snow, Angus M. Cannon, Arthur Winter, George E. Richards, Lorin Farr, George Romney, Elias Smith, B. F. Grant, Benjamin Goddard, Joseph F. Smith, Jr., John McDonald, Sr., Ida A. Smith, Alice Richards and baby Oliver, Mrs. Smith, Susa Young Gates and Edith A. Smith.

WIN SOULS BY SINGING.

Emma Lucy Gates Will Use Her Voice to Convert Gentiles.

During the visit of the Mormon party to Boston, the Journal of that city printed the following:

"From the grand opera stage beautiful young Emma Lucy Gates, granddaughter of Brigham Young, founder of the Mormon religion, will sing her faith to the hearts of the Gentiles."

"It is not that I want fame, but I feel that I can win souls to believe the truth better with my voice than in any other way," the fair young Mormon maid told a Journal reporter yesterday in her sweetly modulated voice.

"Her mother is Mrs. Susa Young Gates, a daughter of Brigham Young. With her daughter and son, Cecil Gates, Mrs. Gates attended the memorial exercises, and yesterday Miss Gates astonished the Boston Mormons with her wonderful voice in several solos in the afternoon meeting. Besides its marvelous range and power her voice has that sweet, sonorous quality that goes straight to the hearts of who hear, and is more effective than the most flowery oratory."

"She is studying with a famous opera teacher in New York, Mme. Freda Astor, and she has already studied abroad in Paris and elsewhere, and is now getting those finishing touches of delivery and manner that go to make the great opera singer. Recently one of the great grand opera managers of New York invited her to sing at one of his company's places with his company, but she declined, for, as she naively says, 'I had rather spend my time now in study than in a minor position. When I begin I shall begin at the top.'"

"Though I am proud of him I don't want to be known as Brigham Young's granddaughter. I want to make a name for myself as another of her naive declarations. She will spend a week in Boston with her brother, who is studying the piano at the New England Conservatory, before returning to New York. She says she is in love with what she has seen of it. Hub and is crazy to begin exploring the famous places and historic spots she has heard and read so much about."

"Though Mrs. Gates is wealthy, for fifteen years she has been the editor of a woman's large monthly in the west."

TWO MEN IN A RUNAWAY

Thrown From a Sleigh While Making New Year Calls and Narrowly Escape Severe Injuries.

Sperry Lawson and Joseph Thomsen, salesmen for the Z. C. M. I., were injured in a runaway yesterday morning while making New Year calls. The two men were riding from home to home in a light cutter to which was attached a single horse. Near K street, on Second, the horse became frightened, bolting with such suddenness that both men were thrown from the cutter. Lawson fell headlong against a hitching post, sustaining a long cut across the scalp. He was carried into William A. Rogers' home, 685 Second street, insensible. Later he was removed to the Holy Cross hospital, where Dr. E. P. Root sewed the wound. It was an ugly gash, requiring seventeen stitches. Mr. Lawson was resting easily last evening. He will be able to resume his duties within a short time. Thomsen was not so unfortunate as his companion, escaping with a wrenched shoulder and numerous cuts about the hands.

WHY KING FIRED HIS GUN

Thought "Vag" Was a Bad Man Who Ought to Be Put in Jail Quickly.

Howard A. King yesterday explained the circumstances in connection with his firing his revolver to stop a "vag" early Sunday morning, by saying that he believed the man a dangerous person to be at large and sought to take him to the police station.

"After the man had asked me for money and had made one or two moves I didn't like, I thought it would be best to take him to the police station," said Mr. King. "He went along all right until we got to the corner, when he twisted away from me and started to run. I shouted to him to stop, but he kept on, so I fired in the air. That didn't stop him, and I fired again."

"The man hid in a coal box behind a saloon, where he was soon found, and all of us went to the station together. I made a charge of vagrancy against the man. Officer Smoot told me he had a notion to arrest me for carrying concealed weapons and took my revolver, but I was not placed under arrest. The statement that J. U. Eldredge, Jr., was with me was evidently due to a misunderstanding. Mr. Eldredge was not with me, and had not been for several hours."

"Some of the police appear to think I had no business to attempt to take the man in, but I think if more of the citizens of the town would make an effort to secure the arrest of these professional beggars and the like there would be fewer holdups in Salt Lake. And, further, I don't believe the police should attempt to criticize a man for carrying a revolver until they are able to give him a guarantee that he will not be held up or robbed or killed on his way home any night."

MUCH JOY AT OPEN HOUSE

Commercial Club Shows Hospitality From Noon Until Midnight to All Comers.

Open house prevailed at the Commercial club from noon until midnight yesterday, and the members and their friends called in large numbers to exchange greetings and to sample the good cheer that had been prepared.

The club rooms were decorated appropriately with evergreens and flowers. Luncheon was in readiness in the banquet hall at all times, and none of those who visited the club were permitted to depart without partaking of the hospitality.

"I am proud of him I don't want to be known as Brigham Young's granddaughter. I want to make a name for myself as another of her naive declarations. She will spend a week in Boston with her brother, who is studying the piano at the New England Conservatory, before returning to New York. She says she is in love with what she has seen of it. Hub and is crazy to begin exploring the famous places and historic spots she has heard and read so much about."

"Though Mrs. Gates is wealthy, for fifteen years she has been the editor of a woman's large monthly in the west."

TAKES ALL BUT THE ROOM

Sad Fate Befalls a Son of Sunny Greece as the Reward of an Act of Charity.

Nicholas Pantecopule's story to the police ran something like this last night:
"Vendetta! Mur-r-der-r-r! Spagetti! Dees man he bona me for de price of de feed. I no savvy him. He to me es no acquaint—what you call him? Garcia! I not know him before dees time. I like him to de reater—excuse me, I can't spik dees langwidge vera fine— I buy him de bigga de feed. Rough on ratatloopus! I like him to my room at 547 West Second South—he sleep wit me. Malumissimo! My hearta es broke. So I es, Dees man get oop in de night sometime. I don't know, and take me money. I had de two hundred and seventy-fif dol—he took it alla. Hekenos! He like me shoes, clothes and coat! Bumbino! I sprizid he don't swipe mea rooma. Polesman you get dot mana, den I buy you fine n-cent seegar."

The policemen who survived this talk, interspersed with tears, oaths and the odor of garlic, are looking for the faithful Greek.

WORMS
"I had for years suffered from what medical men called Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach. In August I purchased a box of Cascarets and was surprised to find that I had 'em'—yes—a wiggle, squirming mass left me. Judge our doctor's surprise when I showed him thirty feet, and in another day the remainder about the same length of a sapwood that had been sapping my vitality for years. I have enjoyed the best of health ever since. I trust this testimonial will appeal to other sufferers."
